

School Tax Collector At West Park Is Missing And There Is A Shortage of $2,500

Arthur G. Overocker Is Charged With Having Withheld Funds Collected In District For School Purposes and Spending the Money—About $400 Had Been Made Good Following His Resignation—Rumored He and Family are Residing In New York City.

Arthur G. Overocker, school tax collector of School District No. 11, town of Esopus, at West Park, has been missing from the village since some time about March first when he with his family removed from the village to parts unknown. There is a shortage of something like $2,500 in the school district funds and it is alleged that Mr. Overocker during his term in office as collector withheld funds collected in the district for school purposes and spent the money.

Just how long the condition had existed can not be definitely known but from a check-up of the funds it would appear that even so far back as last year Mr. Overocker was using funds of the district for his personal needs. In collecting school taxes he failed to deposit them in the school fund and the shortage was covered in such a manner that it was not discovered for a considerable time.

About February 15 of this year there was a rumor about the village that the collector was short in his accounts and at that time he sent in his resignation to the trustee, Julian Burroughs. About March first Mr. Overocker and his family removed from the village and has not been located.

Made Good $400 of Shortage. At the time the resignation was sent in there was a suspicion that there was a shortage but it was not until later that a check-up showed the actual shortage. Since that time about $400 of the shortage has been made good by Mr. Overocker but before the entire shortage was made good he left the village and has not been seen since. There is a rumor being circulated about the village to the effect that he is residing in New York city.

When the shortage was discovered an effort was made to have the collector make good the missing funds but he was able to realize but a portion of the fund.

On removal from the district, under the law, there was a vacancy created in the district and since that time there has been a collector elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Overocker came to West Park some time ago from Poughkeepsie and was elected school tax collector. A shortage in the district funds has been traced back to last year.

Bondsman Are Liable. A school tax collector is required to provide necessary bondsman on being elected to the office and such bondsman are liable for any shortage which may develop in the funds of the district in event of any irregularities on the part of the collector. The bondsman are responsible for the funds necessary to conduct the school district and meet the teacher's salary.

NAVIGATION OPENS ON ERIE DIVISION OF BARGE CANAL

Opening of navigation on the Erie division of the Barge canal as far west as Baldwinsville near Syracuse, was announced at Albany, Wednesday by Major Thomas F. Farrell, state commissioner of canals and waterways. Indications are that within two or three days barges will be able to make the complete passage of the canal. The announcement indicated that the tieup is nearly over with the probability, lacking further rains, that service will be moving from both ends of the canal next week.

Farm Bureau Cooperating In Dairy Survey

As part of the dairy program in the New York Milk shed to increase production of milk next November, the Ulster County Farm Bureau is conducting, in cooperation with Farm Bureaus in other counties and the New York State College of Agriculture, a milk production survey. The purpose of this survey is to find out the number and age of dairy cows; months of freshening; probable sales and purchases of cows; feeding and management practices to be followed during the coming season; and the estimated increased production of milk. In November, 1929, over the previous year.

County agents in the New York Milk Shed have met at three regional conferences and formulated plans for the rapid and efficient collection and summarizing of this information. Through the cooperation of plant superintendents and dairymen, an effort will be made to get a record of the above facts on every dairy in Ulster county that supplies milk to shipping stations.

The plan of procedure calls for the informing of every producer of the danger of a shortage of milk next November and the consequences of dairymen failing to meet the emergency. Each dairyman will be sent a survey card and asked to return the same to the Farm Bureau Office. Special emergency dairy committees have been appointed to assist in getting these survey cards promptly filled out and returned.

A complete summary of the survey will be made by the department of agricultural economics and farm management of the State College of Agriculture and meetings will be held with dairymen to discuss needed changes in feeding and management practices based on the results of the survey in Ulster county.

Any premature extension of the present New York Milk Shed would undoubtedly mean a lower price for everyone. This would mean a lower purchasing power for all dairy farmers and in turn would be detrimental to many lines of business. It is important that everyone, including business men, cooperate to the fullest extent to supply the needs of the New York Market next fall.

This morning in police court Mrs. Lynch entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to Saturday morning. Mrs. Lynch informed the court that she was getting ready to move out of town.

MEXICO ARRESTS THREE MAY DAY DEMONSTRATORS.

Mexico City, May 2 (AP).—Three men, alleged Mexican Communists, were under arrest today booked for investigation after a May Day demonstration in front of the American Consulate yesterday which police broke up almost as soon as it began. One of the men, Leopoldo Quiroga, was charged with shouting "Death to Morrow."

J., has filed a certificate with the Ulster county clerk that she is conducting a business of dealing at wholesale and retail in the buying and selling of house furnishings of all kinds under the name and style, Kingston Bedding and Floor Covering House, at 589 Broadway, Kingston.

Berlin Riots Cost 7 Dead, 110 Injured

May Day Demonstration by Communists Not Quelled Until 11 o'clock at Night—Police Force Street Barricades With Armored Cars.

Berlin, May 2 (AP).—Clashes between police and Communists in yesterday's riotous May Day celebration in Berlin resulted in heavy casualties, seven Communists being killed, and 80 civilians and 30 policemen injured.

The casualties were probably greater as the figures given out by the police today did not include many Communists who were taken to their homes after being injured in the fighting.

There were 900 arrests, of whom 725 were released after an examination.

The principal rioting took place after dark in the working class quarter of Berlin, where Communists, in an effort to enforce their "Conquer the Streets" slogan for May Day, erected barricades in the main thoroughfare of the Pankstrasse and its side streets.

More than 3,000 workers ranged themselves behind these barricades and held them against 500 policemen who charged with their nightsticks. The police eventually realized their force was too weak and opened fire on the rioters. It was not, however, until armored cars were brought up that the barricades finally were forced.

There was promiscuous shooting for several hours between the two groups, with snipers of both picking off opponents from behind windows or buildings in the neighborhood. Those Communists who did not have guns picked up paving blocks, bottles and stones and used them. It was not until after 11 p. m. that the police were able to subdue their adversaries and clear the surrounding houses of the disorderly elements.

Fighting also was reported from the eastern and southeastern parts of the city, where light systems broke down and added to the terror of the populace.

Police Regulations Caused Feeling. Much of the Communist feeling yesterday was due to special police orders denying them the right to use the streets for their International Labor Day demonstrations. After the orders were issued the Communists gave loud warning that they would create disturbances and otherwise make their presence felt.

Until last night, however, the demonstrations had been of minor character. Police with the aid of nightsticks, fire hose, and occasional shots fired into the air, were able to quell every outbreak. Police said during the day they broke up more than 70 incipient parades.

Authorities were hard put to identify many of the dead or injured, since the Communist party had ordered members to leave papers or other identifying marks at home.

The Communists, evidently anticipating the sanguinary aspects of the demonstration, had their own first aid squads and ambulances working in several sections.

Near Blizzard Strikes St. Louis, Tornadoes Kill 6

Portions of Missouri and Illinois Have Freezing Temperatures—Arkansas and Texas Suffer Again From Tornadoes, Followed by Snow, Hail, Sleet and Rain.

St. Louis, May 2 (AP).—A heavy snow storm of near blizzard proportions struck St. Louis and portions of Missouri and Illinois today, demoralizing traffic, disrupting telephone communications and sending the temperature tumbling below freezing. More than three inches of snow had fallen here before 8 o'clock this morning.

The unseasonable storm struck with sudden fury in the wake of a series of terrific wind, rain and hail storms yesterday and last night and brought mid-winter weather to a wide area, the bounds of which had not been determined by the government weather bureau this morning.

Reports reached St. Louis that there had been a destructive tornado in southeast Missouri, but the storm had so paralyzed telephone service that it was impossible to establish communications with that region.

Six Dead From Tornadoes.

Little Rock, Ark., May 2 (AP).—The second series of tornadoes in Arkansas in less than a month today took a toll of at least six dead and probably 50 injured, with property damage running high.

Striking a few hours apart in both east and west parts of the state yesterday and last night, The tornadoes so completely demoralized communication systems that full reports of the number of dead and injured was not obtainable early today.

The six known dead were at Brinkley and Wheatley, a few miles apart, in northeast Arkansas. More than 20 were injured in that section, some seriously. Reports from Dagmar, southwest of Brinkley, were that 20 persons were injured there. Fort Smith and vicinity had a dozen injured.

Death List May Increase.

The number of dead was expected to be increased by a thorough survey of the section around Wheatley. The first tornado struck at Fort Smith in mid-afternoon. Five were injured in the city and seven hurt at Sand Prairie, a small town near there. There was considerable property damage.

The Brinkley and Wheatley storm hit at 6:30 o'clock. A staff correspondent of the Associated Press who was on the Rock Island Special train from Little Rock reported the path of the tornado was clearly visible from the railroad tracks southwest of Brinkley.

Cutting a path about 200 yards wide, it leveled telephone poles and trees, he said. It apparently hit first south of Devils Bluff, in the vicinity of Dagmar, moved northeast toward Brinkley, passing through the outskirts of that town, then east to Wheatley where it turned directly north. Many of the injured were from the section north of Wheatley.

Heavy Storms in Texas.

Dallas, Texas, May 2 (AP).—Texas weather moderated today after disturbances in almost every section of the state.

Northern points were whipped by a 68-mile gale yesterday and a series of minor tornadoes swept about the Arkansas line. Snow, hail, sleet and rain fell generally in the panhandle.

Several negro farm hands were reported injured in Smith county by a tornado.

Street car service in Dallas was interrupted when the metal roof of a downtown automobile parking station was hurled through the air to smash power and telephone lines. Windows were blown in, signs, papers and sand filled the air, and small sheds were razed.

Storm Warning Issued.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—The weather bureau today announced the following storm warning: Disturbance of marked intensity over Ohio Valley moving northeastward; will be attended by south and southwest winds probably becoming strong, shifting to west and northwest and reaching gale force tonight.

Scouting Fleet Visits New York

New York, May 2 (AP).—Uncle Sam's Scouting fleet, comprising more than 40 men of war, returned from southern waters today to drop anchor in the Hudson along Riverside Drive for a 10 day stay.

Six thousand officers and men saw New York for the first time since last fall. Shore leave, their first since January 2 when the fleet set out for target practice in Guantanamo Bay, was granted soon as all the vessels had anchored.

Three battleships, four light cruisers and 25 destroyers comprise the fleet.

Houghtaling.

"Wise Discretion" Letter Explained

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt Explains for Laymen That a Prosecutor Must Weigh Evidence and Choose Under What Section of Law He Will Prosecute.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—Long established precedent and a belief that "enforcement by harassment is never justified" are held out by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, as reasons for her letter directing district attorneys to use "a wise discretion" in application of the Jones law.

Her explanation of the letter, which has aroused widespread comment, was given to Mrs. Leuna Lowe Yost, legislative superintendent of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and is published today by "The Union Signal", its official weekly organ.

"The letter on the application of the new Jones amendment followed the precedent of the department long established in the administration of the white slave traffic act," she says. "Its purpose is to point out to United States attorneys the importance of a careful study of the evidence prior to instituting action, and the exercise of a wise discretion in getting that evidence into the particular section of the law violation of which it will best prove in court. For, although the average man and woman may be unaware of the fact, every lawyer knows that the prosecutor must weigh evidence and choose (make an election of remedies is the legal term that applies) under what section of the law he will plead the case.

Dry Violations Infringe Eight Laws.

"Particularly must every United States attorney do this with prohibition violations. Almost every violation reported by prohibition agents is a legal infringement of no less than eight sections of law, to-wit: (a) some of the internal revenue statutes existing prior to prohibition; (b) the possession, (c) manufacture, (d) transportation, (e) sale, (f) of manufacturing sections of the national prohibition act; (g) the tariff act, (h) the customs act, and frequently (e) the prohibition law of the county or state. To proceed under possession or some of the sections, a misdemeanor complaint may be filed immediately. To choose other sections, the case must be presented to the grand jury.

Prosecutors Must Follow Law.

"Evaluating evidence before trial has been always a prosecutor's duty; but it becomes of greater importance since the Jones amendment to the Volstead act shows that congress intends those offenses which violate the constitution itself to be felonies and leaves other Volstead violations as misdemeanors. A United States attorney must proceed under the law according to the intent of congress, and to do that he must exercise a wise discretion in choosing his first steps of procedure."

Georgia Patronage Fight Reopens

Showdown Desired by Rival Groups of Republicans and Democrats Who Were Prominent in Hoover Campaign.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—Invasion of the national capital by a group of Georgia Republicans and Democrats who were prominent in the Hoover campaign last year has brought the whole southern patronage control fight into the open again.

Apparently the Georgians are here intent on obtaining a showdown as between the organizations set up by Horace A. Mann, who directed the President's campaign in half a dozen southern states, and the group of party leaders here who have been designated generally, though unofficially, as the administration committee on patronage control.

There is much conjecture whether the President himself will take a hand in the controversy, or whether the old Mann organization is to go down before the new machinery, which was set up under the direction of Postmaster General Brown in consultation with Walter Newton, administrative assistant to the President, and James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee.

After a talk late yesterday with Mr. Newton, the Georgians had an engagement today to discuss the situation with the postmaster general. Whether they will ask for an appointment with President Hoover was believed to hinge upon the outcome of this conference.

Vote on Farm Bill In Senate Unlikely Until Next Week

Administration Leaders Forced to That Conclusion by Mass of Amendments and Desire of Some Senators to Debate—Hope for Vote Monday or Tuesday.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—The mass of amendments offered to the farm relief bill in the Senate has forced administration leaders to conclude that final action on the measure will have to be postponed until next week.

Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, is hopeful that the Senate will vote on the export debenture section tomorrow, but even this seems impossible in view of the large number of Senators who have indicated a desire to discuss the proposal.

A Saturday session may be called to get the export debenture contest out of the way before the end of the week. If this aim is successful, the measure as a whole is likely to reach a vote Monday or Tuesday.

Although the amendment of Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, to eliminate the debenture plan, has caused the greatest discussion, considerable debate is expected also upon a number of the dozen or so changes advocated by other Senators. Some of these may be accepted or rejected without argument, however.

May Exclude Fruits and Vegetables.

After the debenture plan has been disposed of, the Senate will be asked by Chairman McNary to comply with a request of fruit and vegetable associations that their products be excluded from operation of the farm relief machinery to be set up by the bill. They asked and obtained similar exemption from operation of the equalization fee in the old McNary-Haugen bill.

Senator McNary also has an amendment providing that no money would be loaned by the proposed farm board for the construction of storage and warehousing facilities unless the board was convinced that existing facilities were inadequate. This provision is included in the House bill.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, intends to call up an amendment his bill providing a huge subsidy for the direct buying by the government of surplus crops. There is no indication that this proposal will be accepted.

Amendments Likely to be Lost.

Another amendment that seems certain to be voted down is that of Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, for the operation of Muscle Shoals under lease from the secretary of war to the Air Nitrates Corporation and the American Cyanamid Company. In this category also is placed the amendment of Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, to substitute the equalization fee for the export debenture plan.

There are half a dozen other amendments.

More Deaths From Alcoholism

New York, May 2 (AP).—The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced today that deaths from acute and chronic alcoholism among its policy holders in the United States and Canada were greater during the first three months of this year than in any similar period since 1917.

One hundred and seventy-five deaths were recorded during the first quarter of this year. Only four were of Canadian policy holders. Last year during the same period there were 144. These figures do not include deaths due to poisoning by wood and denatured alcohol.

Back in County Jail.

William Sweeney of Shandaken increased the roster of the Ulster county jail from 14 to 15 Wednesday evening, having been sent there by a justice of the peace of Shandaken to serve three months. Sweeney was found guilty of disorderly conduct and using bad language. In February he was discharged from custody by the sheriff after serving six months on a similar charge.

Strenuous objection was made on the part of the State Department of Public Works and County Attorney Robert G. Groves to a proposed scheme submitted by New York Central engineers for elimination of the Boulevard crossing of the Walkkill Valley Railroad in this city. The railroad was instructed at a recent hearing before Assistant Engineer C. R. Chase of the Public Service Commission and a further hearing was held Wednesday afternoon at the court house for the purpose of submitting such plans. Under the plans as submitted the crossing would be eliminated by means of an overhead bridge which would necessitate the insertion of an "S" curve. This scheme was objected to by Mr. Burleigh of the Department of Public Works on the grounds that the department was spending large sums of money to eliminate bad turns and alignment of present highways and he stated that it was "suicidal" to deliberately insert an "S" curve at this crossing.

Engineer Jaynes of the New York Central lines stated that the railroad had made a study of the situation at the crossing which is just in the city limits and had prepared plans which he offered. Both the department of Public Works and County Attorney Groves objected to the reception of the plans, as they stated the plans injected a poor alignment and improper grade in the project. Mr. Groves also objected to the plans and asked that a study be made of the possibility of an underpass. Mr. Jaynes said the railroad had investigated the possibility of an underpass but found it would be a very expensive proposition and the study had been dropped before completed. Rock which crops out in several places would indicate that such a construction would be prohibitive and even taking advantage of the low contour of the land to the south there was a high hill to the north which would make necessary much excavation and most of it would be rock.

Plan Outlined By Railroad.

Under the plan as outlined by the railroad the bridge across the tracks would be located about 322 feet east of the present crossing or nearer to Kingston. The new alignment would leave the present highway 1,100 feet east of the present crossing and form an "S" curve swinging over an embankment to the bridge which would cross the tracks 322 feet east of the present crossing. After crossing the tracks on a steel structure supported on concrete pillars the road would curve back and parallel the tracks taking advantage of the high point of ground which lies to the south of the tracks and drop down in places at a 6 per cent grade to again join the present Rosendale road at a point 726 feet west of the present crossing. On both the east and west approach there would be in places a 6 per cent grade.

The new alignment would leave the present road on the east and travel over the properties which now lie between the Boulevard and the railroad tracks. The west junction would be in the vicinity of the first house which lies to the west of the crossing near the small creek.

In making the study the railroad had at first started out to figure on 500 foot radius curves but found this would be a very expensive proposition and changed to 500 feet radius curves and on that basis the estimated cost as shown by the railroad would be $112,512, exclusive of land and property damage.

"Secondary Importance"

In presenting the plans Mr. Jaynes said the attitude of the railroad was that the crossing was not a much coveted one, being on a secondary highway it was of secondary importance. There were but few trains a day over this branch line and the railroad felt that there should not be too much money spent in an elimination of the crossing. The plans as submitted he held were suitable for a road which did not bear heavy traffic and he said the railroad felt that the money might rather be spent on some more important and more traveled road for elimination purposes of a real dangerous condition.

The plans call for a 36 foot roadway on the overpass but in regard to that matter Mr. Jaynes said in his opinion a 24 foot roadway would be sufficient to carry all the traffic which this road bore. On the approaches the plans call for an 18 foot pavement where the road now is but 14 feet.

Positive Plan Would Never Be Accepted.

Mr. Burleigh for the Department of Public Works, asked for an adjournment of the hearing until June 18.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Rosevelt Field, N. Y.—If Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh ever move perhaps it will be by airplane van. The colonel has had a bit of experience along that line. He watched when his plane took hazy and off-center equipment from Curtiss Field to the new Curtiss headquarters at Valley Stream. Curtiss Field has become Roosevelt Field No. 2.

New York—George Ade is back from a cruise around the world with anecdote. At Jerusalem a professional guide was telling American tourists of the flight of the holy family to Egypt. An elderly woman interrupted: "I wish you'd explain how they got across the Suez canal."

New York—Under the heading, "Wanted, farewell address for a Scowlaw on a scaffold," The World published a letter from Hermann Oelrichs offering a first prize of $100 and two other prizes of $50 each. He writes: "In a year or two, when it becomes a hanging matter to take a drink and as I mount the scaffold I will no doubt be asked if I have any last words to say, it is my desire to obtain and memorize an apt and graceful speech." Oelrichs, member of a wealthy and socially prominent family, was formerly an attaché at the American embassy in Berlin.

Mexico City—Moses Verdugo, 45, bookkeeper, having read "Robinson Crusoe," desires to live on a lonely island. He wrote the federal secret service asking to be sent to Tres Marias, Mexico's Devil Island. He told the authorities he had committed no crime, but for the sake of adventure would share the lot of criminals.

Philadelphia—It is the ambition of Brigadier-General Smedley D. Butler to be a cop again before he dies. Renewing acquaintances in the city of brotherly love where he formerly bossed the police, he told of his longing and added: "I lost all my teeth when I went away. I was pretty well beaten up and bloody, but I was still a cop and it was all worth while."

Constantinople—The fall of Constantinople has been averted by bolstering up with a column of cement an ancient, crumbling lindens tree. Tradition has it that when this particular tree falls, the city will fall into the hands of the traditional enemy, Greece. From the limbs of the tree rebel janissaries once swung by order of sultans. Nothing remains save a gaunt trunk.

PLATTEKILL GRANGE MEETING WELL ATTENDED

The regular meeting of Plattekill Grange on Saturday evening was very largely attended, surpassing even the usual record attendance. The past masters and lecturers were in charge of the meeting and assumed the various offices for the evening. Those who took charge were: Edgar Cronk, J. B. Palmer, George Fowler, Harold Teirney, Mrs. C. Ira Thompson, Mrs. Gerow Griffin, Charles Dayton, Mrs. Luther Terwilliger and F. E. Lozier.

The program was presented by several members from Brookside Grange as follows:

A group of tenor solos by Sidney Click.

A farce entitled "Initiation in the Eighth Degree" given by Harry Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Morley, Mr. and Mrs. Wager, Mr. McClintock, Miss Purdy and others.

Piano selections by Miss Purdy. Monologue by Mr. McClintock.

Two soprano solos: "It's Morning" and "In the Garden of Your Heart" by Mrs. Wager.

In addition brief sketches of the lives of the members of President Hoover's cabinet were given by Gordon Lozier, Edward Jenkins, Margaret Minard, Ruth Goettler and Edgar Cronk, Jr., members of the Wideawake Club.

The refreshment committee served sandwiches, cake and coffee.

The next meeting will be held on May 11, when the first and second degrees will be conferred on a large class of candidates. A degree team from Mountainville Grange, Orange county, has been invited to confer the degrees. The team will be accompanied by a delegation of their members and a five piece orchestra, who will assist in the degree work.

Mrs. Charles Jenkins, lecturer, has called a meeting of the degree team at the hall on Monday evening, May 8.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville, May 2.—E. M. Davis and F. Barringer were business callers in Kingston on Saturday.

E. Van Etten of Cold Springs and M. Deyo of Poughkeepsie, accompanied by Mrs. F. Beesmer and baby Kenneth of Port Ewen, were entertained at the home of Mrs. M. J. Beesmer on Sunday.

Gussie Beesmer of Kingston has been spending a few days at the home of her brother, J. Beesmer. Miss Beesmer visited her cousin, Mrs. Jerry Keator, of Palentown, on Friday.

F. Beesmer of Kerhonkson was selling fish through the place on Tuesday. Frank is a boy from this place.

Mrs. D. C. Van Etten, who has been spending some time with her daughter in Walden, has returned to her home.

William Chambers and family of Union Grove are visiting Mrs. Chambers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barringer.

Color in the Kitchen

THE modern kitchen with its gay color and efficient equipment has added immeasurably to the dispatch and ease with which every day tasks are accomplished. The most handsome duties take on an allure when they may be carried out with the aid of colorful pots and pans, spoons that are well designed and with the pleasant note of brightly-toned handles. The most unimaginative person is inspired to create a charming kitchen with the inspiration this equipment affords. And it is amazing how effective a result may be obtained with moderate expenditure. Naturally aluminum and iron utensils still have their place in cookery. But the modern enameled pot or pan, bright in color and smooth and clean as to surface is so much easier to deal with, that even that bug-bear—washing dishes—loses some of its unpleasantness.

FOR THE KITCHEN

After all it's what comes out of the kitchen—the cooking that is done there—that puts real color into life. The gayest colored pots and pans cannot make a perfect cook. But a good cook can make a better meal, and get more joy in cooking it, with such cooking things as are offered here.

OFFICER GIVES REASONS FOR SINKING OF VESTRIA

London, May 2 (AP)—Chief Officer F. W. Johnson, of the ill-fated liner Vestria, testifying before the inquiry court of the British Board of Trade today, said that the sinking of the vessel last November was due to no one cause but several causes.
"I think I can safely say that there were three distinct combinations acting together; the fact that we met bad weather; the fact that the ship was tender; and the fact that water entered the between-decks and did not find its way below, thus capsizing the ship," Johnson declared.
"In my opinion there was too much topweight on the ship," Johnson described the sinking of the Vestria and how the passengers got away. He had no fault to find with the behavior of the crew.

Y's Men's Club Enjoy a Skit

The Kingston Y's Men's Club were in jolly good humor Tuesday evening as they added two new members to their roll, discovered they were still ahead of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in their attendance competition and enjoyed an exceptionally good dinner prepared by the Misses Davenport and served by the Misses Alma Quimby, Doris Willmott, Viola Porter and Emma Porter.

The fellows took especial delight in the singing as they swung from one song into another with no effort whatsoever so that their song leader, Tom Rowland, found that instead of leading the men they were leading him. The men enjoyed having Dan Dittner back with them again at the piano, after a two weeks' absence from town.

Ernest LeFevre introduced as new members Jay Vanderlyn and Myer Oppenheimer. They were certainly given a royal Y's Men's reception in to the club.

After Captains Clarence Dumm, Tom Rowland, Arthur Quimby, Clarence Wolfersteig, Stanley Winne and Dr. Gifford had reported for their teams it was found that there were five absentees, making the percentage of attendance 90. This is the lowest attendance they have had in a long time and President McLoughlin said he expected a one hundred percent meeting next week to make up for it.

President McLoughlin announced that commencing next week he would devote ten minutes each meeting which he would call "President's Time" and would have some novelty and vaudeville act or other big feature for the amusement of the men.

The invitation of the Burroughs Adding Machine Athletic Association to visit them at Albany on Saturday, May 11, was accepted. Plans for a good time is already being made by the Burroughs men and a big delegation is expected to go.

John C. Porter, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., extended on behalf of the budget campaign committee and the board of directors their thanks for the help the Y's Men had given in the recent campaign.

Jack Haulenbeck announced that he would endeavor to have a goodly number of Saugerties men present next week as guests of the club.

The club enjoyed greatly the skit put on by James Scott and Dr. Julian I. Gifford entitled "The Club's Legacy." Jim Scott as the very sober, earnest student after enlightenment on a very important question was fine while Dr. Gifford as the learned professor who could give that information in a manner that satisfied everyone present, including Jim, was great. Even Paul Zucca, the popular Kiwanian, who dropped in for a few moments to look the club over, said it couldn't have been done better.

The entertainment committee for next week will be Andrew McNaught, Jr., Ernest LeFevre and Howard N. Smith.

LITTLE-BO-PEEP MIGHT SAVE THIS SHEEP

Chicago, May 2 (AP)—Murphy had a little lamb, its fleece was white and pale. (That was before the little lamb got pinched and thrown in jail). Murphy (Mike) an officer, had run the lambkin in. He found it going "ba-ba" amidst the city's awful din.

It was gambling among the traffic. After two days in jail, with Mary showing no interest whatever in claiming her pet, the four-legged gambler has become very dirty and a big problem.

Thus Murphy's little lamb has turned into a black sheep and a white elephant.

May Ask Mellon About Business

Washington, May 2 (AP)—A proposal to call Secretary Mellon for questioning regarding his right to head the treasury department in view of an old statute forbidding the treasury secretary to engage in trade or commerce was discussed for two hours today by the senate judiciary committee but no action was taken. The committee decided to meet again tomorrow.

RUSSIAN BOY LEARNS ENGLISH. WINS HONORS
Toronto, Ont., May 2 (AP)—Leo Malania, 17, who came as an immigrant boy to Canada six years ago from Russia, knowing no word of English, to seek his fortune, was today provincial oratorical champion.

Leo carried off the title last night in competition with 15 other second-year school pupils, all champions of their district. He spoke on the unification of Canada.

U. S. Withdraws Its Reservation

Geneva, May 2 (AP)—As an outcome of last week's withdrawal by the United States of objection to the non-limitation of trained reserves, Hugh S. Gibson, the American representative at the preparatory disarmament conference today announced withdrawal of the American reservation concerning war material in stock.

At the opening of discussion on war material, Gibson said that the analogy between material in reserve and trained reserves was so close that he need only take a moment to explain the position.

Throughout earlier debates, he said, the American delegation endeavored to persuade the other delegations that material in reserve should be limited on the ground (1) That it actually exists in time of peace, (2) That it conferred a decided advantage on its possessor should war break out and (3) That it was important to make a clear distinction between material in stock and in service.

"HUMAN SPIDER" TO PERFORM TONIGHT

Johnny Woods, "human spider," only daredevil who ever scaled the Woolworth building in New York city, will climb from the sidewalk to the roof of the Stuyvesant Hotel tonight between 7 and 7:30 o'clock.

After reaching the roof of the hotel, the "human spider" will do balancing stunts on the cornice. A feature of the performance will be the suspending of the daredevil from the roof by a General tire tube, which will be furnished by Harris Brown, tire dealer at 642 Broadway.

Woods, who is the first man to attempt the climbing of the Stuyvesant in about 10 years, says that the building offers difficulties not general in those he has climbed during the past 14 years.

$145,000 NOT ENOUGH FOR FAMOUS VASE
London, May 2 (AP)—The famous Portland vase, offered at Christie's Auction Rooms today was withdrawn after 22,000 guineas (about $145,000) had been bid, the reserve price not having been reached.

It had been thought that the price for the unique vase might possibly reach 100,000 pounds (approximately $500,000). The opening bid was 10,000 guineas (about $50,000) which was mounted rapidly to 22,000 guineas and there halted. At first it was supposed that an unknown purchaser had secured the vase but a later announcement stated the reserve price had not been reached and that the vase was therefore withdrawn from sale.

Next Move in Disarmament

Washington, May 2 (AP)—The Washington government is looking to the League of Nations preparatory commission at Geneva for the next move in the naval disarmament discussion.

High administration officials are of the opinion that it would be futile to attempt another naval disarmament conference in the immediate future. Before such a conference would have greater chances of success than that which failed in 1927, they feel, a new formula for measuring naval strength quite different from the old tonnage basis must be agreed upon.

Suggestions that President Hoover repudiate the action of Ambassador Hugh G. Gibson, chairman of the American delegation at Geneva, in withdrawing the general reservation of the United States against exclusion of trained reserves in considering land armament reductions, have been discredited here. They were advanced in Washington dispatches which apparently were published widely in Europe, but officials declare Gibson's pronouncement reflected the administration viewpoint.

Deny Rumors About Stalin.
Moscow, May 2 (AP)—Reports published in the United States that Joseph Stalin, general secretary of the central committee of the Communist party in Russia, had resigned his post and that he was ill, were stated authoritatively today to have no foundation in fact.

RESPECT FOR ONE LAW.

Never before in all the history of this country has there been so much complaint of lack of "respect for law" or so many appeals to the public to "respect the law." But the phrase, "otherwise responsible citizens," employed the other day by our highest public officer, in adding one more to the innumerable urgings of this sort during the last ten years, was an indirect admission of the unpopularity of a particular law among "responsible citizens" and that what is lacking is not "respect for the law" but respect for just one law. A full half of the people, perhaps, find this one law objectionable, many break it without the least hesitation, and not a few deride it at every opportunity. That is the unfortunate situation and there would seem to be no prospect that it can be changed.

Not only is this unpopular law widely held in contempt but men of "light and leading" publicly condone the breaking of it. Here, for example, is Dean Gauss of Princeton University asserting in an address to the undergraduates that college students drink more now than they did before prohibition and are "not ashamed to admit it" because "you now have the courage of your convictions; you have finished with that bugaboo of conventional respectability which is today hobnobbing hypocritical legislators who vote dry and live wet."

If the law cannot be amended so that "otherwise responsible citizens" will respect it, so that it will promote temperance instead of intemperance, and reliance is to be placed merely on converting a disrespectful public then it would be the part of wisdom to begin the reform at the top, to address the eloquent appeals to the highest official circles, to Washington's official society and to Congress itself. The Federal government can hardly expect to heal a half of the American public of this disease until it heals itself and proves by example that its eloquence is not hypocritical.

BATTLE OF THE BOOKS.

Clouds suggestive of approaching storm are gathering in the book world. Publishers, booksellers and monthly book clubs are on the verge of more or less polite conflict. Some publishers feel that they get the little end of the deal when a new book is sold through one of the clubs or guilds. Also, they say, this method of distribution prevents the best books from getting sufficient notice from the public at large, that book theoretically being too busy reading its book-by-mail to notice any other worthy works. Yet the publishers say their business is so highly competitive that one dare not ignore the clubs unless all do.

Booksellers say their trade has not been hurt by the clubs because the latter do not supply the whole trade anyhow. They find book-buying somewhat stimulated by the wholesale reading the clubs have inaugurated. Yet they have an ethical complaint—they feel that the clubs have tricked the public by putting up a literary front to cover a purely business enterprise. The clubs aren't saying much of anything yet. They don't have to.

What of the public? On hand, a disinterested observer suggests that the public isn't suffering any, either. Joining a book club isn't compulsory. A reader may join one club or all the clubs, or he may do his reading through the lending service of a free library. Yet there is a new and large interest in books among people who formerly didn't go in much for literature. The book clubs, however commercial they may be, probably have stimulated that interest.

THE FRUIT FLY INVASION.

The Mediterranean fruit fly has suddenly appeared in Florida. It is an insect enemy of such menace that local authorities, President Hoover, Department of Agriculture officials, the director of the budget and government entomologists are all concerned with prompt measures to fight it. Alabama and Georgia have placed quarantine on Florida fruits. Congress has been asked by the Pres-

DREAM FORTUNES!

By John Cassel

It is not a dream, it is a reality. The Mediterranean fruit fly is a difficult insect to get rid of. It is exceedingly small. The scope of plant life which it can destroy is wide, including fruits and vegetables grown in the North as well as those limited to the South. The fruit fly is immune to ordinary temperature extremes. It lives part of the time in the ground, part in fruits and part of the time acts as other flies. It can live for 15 to 25 minutes in a 25 per cent solution of formaldehyde.

It is thought that this pest was brought into the country by bootleggers, in the bundles of straw used to keep bottles from breaking. Such a challenge has rarely been taken up more promptly or vigorously. Yet if the bootlegger-carrier theory is correct, other parts of the country may discover the fly any day.

Prof. Einstein, the philosopher of relativity, asked by an American rabbi whether he "believed in God," has made a notable reply by radio. "I believe," he says, "in Spinoza's God, who reveals himself in the orderly harmony of what exists, not in a God who concerns himself with fates and actions of human beings." This, perhaps, is what is to be expected of a philosopher. Some will say at once that Einstein is an "atheist." But that is not fair. Spinoza, one of the greatest of philosophers, has been called "the God-intoxicated man." He had a deep faith, which sufficed for him. He found in his God the creator and sustainer of the world, governing it through universal law. Most men and women, however, insist on a personal God who takes an individual interest in them.

West Shokan, May 2.—About fifty members of Shokan Lodge, also delegates from neighboring lodges, including Agapal Rebekah Lodge of Bearsville, were among the attendants at the I. O. O. F. memorial service at the Methodist Church at Tontogore on Sunday afternoon. An excellent musical program was rendered by the Misses Eckert and Merrihew of Kingston, assisted by Mrs. Coffey, who sang a beautiful solo. The Rev. Mr. Rice opened the service with prayer and Scripture reading. The Rev. A. J. Coffey of Phoenixia was the speaker of the afternoon and he delivered a masterly address upon the principles and activities of this world wide organization, for which, at the close of the service he received high commendation from many members of the congregation. The many lifelong friends in this community of Mrs. Cyrus T. Carle of Kingston are saddened to learn of her death on Sunday, although she had been in poor health for the past two years, the news of her death was unexpected. Her maiden name was Bertha Bell. She was a daughter of the late Roulund and Rebekah Bell and was born and spent her girlhood days on the old homestead on the Heights at the foot of South Mountain. Although her parents have been dead some twenty years she always retained a keen interest in her old home which she and her husband visited over week ends for years throughout the warmer portions of the year. The passing of this friendly couple in their auto on Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning will be missed by their old friends and neighbors who extend to the bereaved husband their heartfelt sympathy in his great loss.

On Wednesday evening, May 8, a benefit dance will be held at the Tontogore I. O. O. F. Hall under the auspices of Shokan Lodge, No. 491. The proceeds from the affair will be donated to the endowment fund of the grand lodge home and orphanage at Ithaca, N. Y. Peppy music for this occasion will be supplied by the young and snappy Night Hawks of Kingston. The entertainment committee solicits the support of this entire section to come out and help make this affair a big success and thereby aid in the support of a most worthy cause.

This section was visited by a severe wind storm on Monday. Little damage was reported. The play "Down in Maine" recently so successfully produced by the Mt. Tremper Grange players, is to be repeated on Wednesday evening, May 8, at the Stone Ridge Grange Hall.

Messrs. Davis and Hesler are finishing their sawing for the season. Frank Roosa of Olive Bridge, superintendent of High Point Springs Farm, was a local business caller on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Scudder, Jr., of Kingston, visited their summer home at West Shokan Heights and industriously engaged in the burning of the grass and leaves in the field nearby.

Charles Barber of Main street on Tuesday entered the Benedictine Hospital at Kingston, preparatory to an operation. Lester S. Davis accompanied by Ernest Constable on Monday transported with the Colange truck the household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Constable from Arkville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Highland were Sunday visitors at the Constable home at West Shokan Heights. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Burroughs of Kingston were local visitors on Tuesday. Mr. Crane of Kingston is a frequent visitor at his summer camp near Watson Hollow.

Huge truck loads of fine quality hay are seen passing on the boulevard. Evidently it is disposed of at the Bailey Farms at Cold Brook. Cornells and Lillian Davis have the measles. They are under the care of Doctor Diamond of Tontogore. The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist Church met on Wednesday for a business meeting and all day's quilting in the basement of the church.

Ross W. Lyne was a week-end visitor at his estate at Traver Hollow.

Carpenter Marshall Roosa is hanging the doors on the Colange garage. Shepard Bell has been constructing a display table for William Colange, which is the subject of favorable comment and may be seen standing on the porch of the West Shokan Inn.

Shepard Bell is the last survivor of famous troupe of the "Babes in the Woods" traveling show of a half century or more ago, the other members being Jake Waterman, violinist, and scene director; Abel North, alternate; Isaac Every, teamster, and Mr. Bell ticket seller and treasurer. They traveled in a specially constructed and artistically constructed show wagon, which also carried the equipment. The troupe first played in Samsonville, then a thriving business center; next at Kerhonkson, then Ellenville, Loch Sheldrake, Neversink Heights, Neversink Flats. At the last four places named a dance followed the show, which drew capacity crowds. The return home was made through Sundown, via the Peekamoose, where they encountered an 18 inch fall of snow. Great difficulty was experienced getting the outfit over the mountain. Nevertheless the weary showmen finally arrived home, a thoroughly experienced, tired and nearly broke troupe. Mr. Bell states that at the start he carried the princely sum of twelve bucks which on his return had dwindled to less than that number of cents.

MODENA. Modena, May 2.—The Trimu Club, a class of the Junior Girls of the Modena M. E. Sunday school, met at the home of Mrs. Floyd Wells Saturday afternoon of last week. Miss Emelyn Van Iderstine and Charles Miller spent the week end at the M. E. parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atchenson were shoppers at Newburgh Saturday evening.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, May 2.—At the annual gathering of the Council of Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges under the auspices of the New York University, New Paltz was represented by Miss Florence Morrissey, one of the student body, and Miss Betty Elgo, president of the Student Council. During Thursday's chapel period both young ladies reported to their schoolmates the doings of the recent meeting. Prof. C. C. Ward introduced the two speakers by saying they had won a unique honor, that of being the only two women representatives from this school who had ever returned with some of their traveling funds still in their possession. Miss Morrissey told several interesting items which had intrigued and interested her and which she wished to pass on to the school. Miss Elgo gave an amusing description of the tiny representation from New Paltz, for one school had 60 members present and most of the others had a goodly number. All of them sat beneath a sign except New Paltz. However, the New Paltz pair surmounted the difficulty by enlisting services of two other lone pairs and immediately giving the New Paltz cheer to the wonder of the others present.

The fire company was called out Saturday evening about 7 o'clock to extinguish a grass fire near the home of Henry Hasbrouck on the New Paltz and Kingston road about a mile and a half from the village. Mrs. Gertrude Coulter, Mrs. Julia Buckmaster, Mrs. Emma Kaiser of New Paltz, accompanied by Mrs. Lois Black, Mrs. Florence Plass and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Teicher of Highland, attended the meeting of Eastern Star in Cairo Friday evening, when the district deputy made her official visit. Mr. and Mrs. Royal Reed of New Paltz in company with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dirk and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Parks of Highland spent the week end at camp in Big Indian.

Mrs. Mary Kniffen has had her residence improved by painting it. A Mother's Day program will be featured at the meeting of Highland Grange May 7. It will be held in the Knights of Pythias Hall. A one act play "Forty Miles an Hour," put on by the cast of New Paltz Grange through the courtesy of Mrs. Frank Elliott will form part of the program. Refreshments will be served. Bernice Oakley entertained a group of friends at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wells, in Poughkeepsie recently. During the evening pinocle was played after which favors were awarded to Ruth Mackey and Etta May Arthur. A number of friends were present.

Mrs. Luther Hasbrouck is visiting her sister, Jennie Wilklow, in Highland. George William motored to Narrowsburg on Thursday. The annual school meeting of District No. 3 will be held May 7 at 8 p. m. at Middletown school house. Sealed bids will be received at this time for transportation of children to New Paltz.

Laurin Abrams called on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Abrams, on Monday of last week. Mrs. Hudson of Springtown has added to her herd six fine cows and one registered Berkshire boar which she bought at auction from the De Witt farm at High Falls. Mrs. Hudson is negotiating now for fifty sheep. She has a large farm and many acres just adapted for cow and sheep raising.

PLATTENKILL. Plattenkill, May 2.—The W. C. T. U. members will hold their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Coleman at Savitell Saturday afternoon, May 4. A good attendance is desired. An entertainment consisting of a play, recitations and readings, will be presented at the Methodist Church at Rossville this evening. Proceeds for benefit of local W. C. T. U. namely the Helen A. Palmer Union.

The world's largest wooden shoe factory is not in Holland, but in Danport, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rooney are moving from Sunset Camp lodging to their home in this village. Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Jr., was a shopper at Poughkeepsie Tuesday. William Crawshaw of Newburgh called on relatives in this place Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Terwilliger entertained company at their home one evening during the past week.

THE ROARING ROAD

Speedway for Tests.

What happens to the Indianapolis speedway during the 364 days of the year it is not being used for racing? The track which resounds to the roar of the fastest racing cars in the world in sunshiny weather, is not altogether quiet in the winter months. Many automobile manufacturers have found the uneven brick course ideal for making tests that may lead to the improvement of their products.

De Palma With Kissel.

Ralph De Palma, veteran speedway and dirt track king, now is associated with the Kissel Motor Car Company. Ralph Mulford, still another one of the old timers, has joined the Stutz staff. The Stutz Company already includes Bert Dingler, Gil Anderson and Lora Corum on its payroll.

Prepare for May Classic.

During the winter, Lawrence Welch, superintendent of the speedway grounds, begins setting his house in order for the May classic. He has completed a line of garages, paralleling the older line, each of which is capable of housing approximately 30 racing cars and crews. These garages are the last word in accommodations, with shower baths for drivers and mechanics.

Du Pont at Le Mans.

The Du Pont entry in the Le Mans 24-hour race June 15 is being put into condition for the French classic. A team of Stutz cars also is entered in this event to represent the United States.

From Duray Camp.

Duray is planning to place a team of three racing cars to be known as the "Packard Cable Specials" on the speedways this summer. He plans to drive one himself. Ralph Hopburn again is to have the front drive he campaigned for Miller last year, and the heavy-footed Little Italian, Tony Gulotta, is to have the third car, which is a rear-wheel drive.

First News Story Phoned from Air

Above Northern New Jersey, May 2 (P).—This story was telephoned to The Associated Press yesterday by a reporter high above land in the first public demonstration of a Western Electric invention which enables an aviator to chat from the clouds with any earth-bound telephone subscriber.

Taking off in the flying telephone booth from Hadley Field, N. J., and linked by wireless with the land lines of the commercial telephone system, the reporter gave his number and presently heard The Associated Press switchboard operator in New York city answer.

"Gimme the city desk," he said, trying to be nonchalant but feeling somewhat as though he were wearing the mantles of Aladdin, Merlin, the Witch of Endor and Cinderella's fairy godmother.

"City desk," he heard. "This is Bill," said the soaring reporter. "I got a story."

"Where are you?" asked the city desk 2,000 feet below.

"I'm up in the air," he said. "And you... that's new," drawled the city desk. "Come down to earth and say what you want."

"You furnish the parachute," the reporter suggested, "and the nerve. Listen. I got a hot story and I'm given just five minutes to talk. Pass me a rewrite man and get him quick."

The rewrite man came on the "line." "Shoot it," he said, "dictation or notes?"

First News by Wireless Phone. And so this story, the first newspaper article to come by wireless telephone, was dictated through the air of "Upper New Jersey" and over a regular telephone wire on the ground to a news office with no more fuss than a district reporter calling in a fire from around the corner. And the latest wonder of science was reported for all the world to read.

The allotted five minutes being extended somewhat the reporter in the air and the rewrite man in the office talked a little more together and the reporter left word for the city editor when he would be back at his typewriter.

"They're flagging me off now," the reporter said at last. "So long."

Conversation between the reporter in the sky and the rewrite man in a telephone booth in the office was clear for the most part.

"I can hear you perfectly," the reporter told the man in the office. "Can you get me?"

"O. K.," said the man in the booth. There were times, however, when the roar of the airplane motor cut into the "connection" like so much radio static, and for a second or two at a time the "line" went bad, probably because of weather conditions and the pitching of the plane.

The demonstration was staged as rain was falling and fog blanketed New Jersey and the metropolis.

Voices Sounded Normal. The rain apparently had little effect on reception in the cabin monoplane in which the pilot, a radio engineer and two reporters rode. The plane was 2,000 feet over Plainfield and above the rain when the conversation was being carried on. The voices sounded as normal as in an ordinary call, although they were amplified slightly.

The reporter's call was picked up at the Bell Telephone experimental laboratory at Whippany, N. J., and there was connected with the land lines.

The apparatus in the plane was compact and simple to operate, almost as easy to use as a land phone. In the plane, however, the reporter talked through a microphone and heard through earphones—all but four feet behind the roaring motor.

Radio telephone calls have been completed previously between planes in the air and stations on the ground, but The Associated Press story was the first to come through commercial channels.

Measles Drop But Still Lead

Albany, N. Y., May 2 (P).—The number of cases of measles in New York state, which had remained above 1,000 for the two weeks previous, dropped below that point during the week ended April 20, according to reports to the State Health Department from all sections of the state exclusive of New York city. Four deaths from measles were reported, and 329 cases.

Jamesville again was first in number of cases, with 34 reported, while Albany continued to hold second place, reporting 61 cases. Middletown reported 58; Kingston 40; Schenectady, 29; White Plains, 29; Elmira 27; Elmira Heights, 21; Greenburgh 15; Falconer 14; St. Johnsville 13; and Lakewood 11.

Other communicable diseases were reported as follows: typhoid fever, five cases, no deaths; scarlet fever, 244 cases, one death; whooping cough, 271 cases, one death; diphtheria, 35 cases, two deaths; pneumonia, 228 cases, 107 deaths.

Swamp's Large Area. The dismal swamp region extends from Virginia into North Carolina, lying south of Norfolk. It has an area of 75 square miles.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

In SENATE,

May 1, 1929.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE LAND OFFICE, IN RESPONSE TO A RESOLUTION PASSED BY THE SENATE, MARCH 1, 1929, RELATIVE TO THE LANDS BELONGING TO THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

ALBANY: J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, 1929.

Events Around The Empire State

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse (AP).—Colonel William I. Donovan, former assistant to the United States attorney general, will speak on anti-trust cases which came within his jurisdiction while in office, at the annual dinner of students and faculty of the College of Law, Syracuse University, May 1. Others on the program are Edmund H. Lewis, president of the Onondaga Bar Association; Charles Wesley Flint, chancellor of Syracuse University; Frank H. Shipman, attorney; Frank H. Walter, dean emeritus, and and Frank H. Hiseck, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Waterloo (AP).—Two Great Danes, bred in this village have been shipped to Japan. Unusual care in preparing the dogs for shipment was necessary because of the length of the journey.

Pattersonville (AP).—Five fox pups, driven from their burrow when it was flooded during recent heavy rains and deserted by their mother, were found by Raymond Fries of this village. Only three of the pups were alive but they are said to be thriving under Fries care.

Geneva (AP).—More than 5,000 girls and boys will camp in the Finger Lakes region this summer, according to a survey recently completed by the Finger Lakes Association which is said to have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in camp property and equipment. Many organizations send their members as far as 100 miles to the permanent camps on the shores of the many lakes in this section.

Hempstead (AP).—An extensive study of the action of tides on the south shore of Long Island will be made soon by Alvin G. Smith, town engineer of Hempstead. Tidal currents have filled channels in many places and it is expected the survey will be followed by dredging operations.

Woodmere (AP).—More birds will be found on Long Island this summer than in past years, according to the local division, Permanent Wild Life Protection League, which has its headquarters here. Many birds on their way north when recent storms broke were forced to seek shelter on the island and many of them have nested here.

"The Big Rock Candy Mountain," originally popularized by the Dutch Masters Minstrels, will be repeated, in response to numerous requests, on their program on Tuesday, May 7, which will be broadcast through WJZ and associated stations at 9:30 p. m.

Shy girlish blushes and masculine courtliness will be recalled by the Songalogue, "When Grandfather Went Sparking," which will be presented by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth and the Old Company Singers over WJZ and associated stations on Sunday, May 5, at 7 p. m. Dr. Spaeth's solo, "Call Me Not Names," represents the exaggerated sentimentality of both sexes in the latter half of the nineteenth century, and was sung by Rosalind Fuller with great success in the revival of "Fashion" a few years ago.

To close its winter season of concerts and inaugurate National Music Week the Atwater Kent Hour, Sunday, May 5, will present a gala program in gala fashion. Eleven famous artists of the concert and operatic world, who have helped make the Atwater Kent Hour an outstanding radio event, together with the Atwater Kent quartet and orchestra, will participate. In addition to the musical numbers there will be a short address by Mr. Kent, sponsor of the hour, and a brief talk by Charles M. Tremaine, secretary of the National Week Committee. Reinhold Werrenrath, the distinguished American baritone, who sang in the first Atwater Kent Hour, will be one of the stars. Two other especially fine voices will be those of Agnes Davis, soprano, and Hazel Arth, contralto, winners of the Atwater Kent Foundation's National Radio Audition for 1927 and 1928.

John Philip Sousa is going on the air. After holding out for seven years against broadcasting his world-famous band, he will make his radio debut under the auspices of the Chevrolet Motor Company at the General Motors Family Party on Monday evening, May 6, at 8:30 eastern standard time.

Speaker Longworth on May 7 will be the principal of an event in the musical history of America when he will broadcast over Eveready Hour the nation's farewell to the Flonzaley Quartet. This world-famous musical organization will play its last concert before disbanding over Eveready Hour Tuesday evening, May 7, at 9 o'clock, eastern daylight saving time. After 25 years' leadership in the rendition of chamber music the members of the famous quartet will retire.

Suffered From Stomach, Kidney And Nervous Disorders—First Relief Through Nu-Erb.

THE NU-ERB MAN.

"For more than a year, I have suffered miseries because of stomach and kidney ailments and nervousness and although I tried every form of treatment and medicine, there was nothing that helped me until I used the Nu-Erb and I am so thankful for what it has done for me that I just feel like telling everybody about it," said Mrs. George B. Brink, Saugerties, N. Y., in a recent statement to the Nu-Erb man at McBride Drug Store, 212 Wall Street.

"My stomach was in such a delicate condition that I suffered distressing pains of indigestion after every meal and it finally got so bad that I was actually afraid to eat. My kidneys were in a weakened condition and I suffered from pains across my back and through my limbs. I was seldom free from headaches. My nerves seemed to be all on edge and I couldn't stand the least noise around the house.

"Since using the Nu-Erb, these troubles have practically all disappeared. I can eat a full meal now and have no trouble with indigestion or any pain or distress in my stomach. My kidneys have improved so that the pains have left my back. I have not had a headache since using the Nu-Erb and my nerves are as steady as anyone's. I was also troubled continually with constipation before using Nu-Erb, but now my bowels are acting regularly every day."

Sufferers from stomach disorders, weakened kidneys, sluggish livers, constipation, nervousness, headaches or rheumatic pains would do well to follow Mrs. Brink's example and give Nu-Erb a trial. It is a pure compound of nature's own herbs, roots, barks and leaves so formulated to give quick relief to such ailments and help sufferers.

McBride Drug Store, 212 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Tony Sarg and His Puppets

When Tony Sarg started his researches for suitable material for his Spanish Fiesta he was quite surprised to find that in Spain many American favorites hold sway among juvenile classics. Therefore it should please the educators and those who must have everything "educational" quite as much as the thousands of younger people who always turn out in force at the matinees where these mechanical marvels hold forth. To know that among the features of the afternoon performance which will be shown at Kingston High School on May 17 under the auspices of the Junior League, will be Red Riding Hood with the wolf and grandma, and all of the thrills with a few laughs interspersed, just because it is Tony Sarg who is doing it.

But this will be only one feature of the afternoon show which is quite like Marionette Vaudeville would be if people had a good marionette theatre in every city. There will be a few scenes introducing Don Quixote, the old favorite, and numerous stunts which give the Tony Sarg Marionettes an opportunity to show what marionettes can do, stunts, which could not well be introduced in the Adventures of Christopher Columbus, which will be given in the evening. There will be musical numbers and marionettes dancing with exquisite sets of scenery as backgrounds for action. The afternoon program will not be as long as the evening, starting at 3:45 o'clock and finishing an hour and a half later. The evening play production requires fully two hours.

Business Girls Elect Officers

A very important business meeting followed the Business Girls' Club supper on Wednesday evening, May 1—the last club supper of the year. Miss Menninger, the president, presided and yearly reports were given by the officers. Several matters of importance were discussed and a generous pledge made to the coming Y. W. C. A. campaign, May 6 to May 11.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Miss Mary Howard; vice president, Miss Eva Rand; secretary, Miss Edna Knapp; treasurer, Miss Catherine Gallagher.

The question of delegates for Maqua was brought up and Marie Rimm and Stella Katterson were elected as delegates from the club to attend the conference the latter part of August.

Miss Ellen Van Slyke invited the club members to a picnic at her home the early part of June and the invitation was accepted with much pleasure.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

TOOTHPICKS

IN MANY parts of the country it is believed that a toothpick made of a piece of a tree which has been struck by lightning is a cure for toothache and a preserver of the teeth generally. The fact of magic virtues attributed to the lightning-struck toothpick today is but a survival of the old belief that lightning sanctified what it touched. The electrical discharges from the clouds were accounted by our ancestors as a direct emanation from the ruler and chief of the gods. Zeus was the thunderer of the Greeks and under the name of Jupiter or Jove he was the same to the Latins.

When we consider that before Benjamin Franklin's time we knew practically as little concerning the real nature of lightning as did Ajax when he defied it on the Trojan field it is not surprising that the men of old saw in this tremendous display of force a god-like emanation, or that a belief should exist today in the magical qualities imparted to wood which has been visited by the thunderbolt.

It is, however, a curious example of how knowledge and superstition may exist side by side that an expert electrician who cages, controls and measures lightning as a part of his business will, nevertheless, pick his teeth with a silver of lightning struck wood in order to stop his toothache.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: An account of the life of a man who has been in the South American jungles for many years. He is a man of many talents and is a very successful hunter. He has been in the jungles for many years and has seen many things that are not known to the world.

Chapter 4 GOLD BULLETS

THE dagger in Andrew's neck belonged to Jerry. He had brought it up from South America with him. Its place was among other trophies of his in a glass-topped table cabinet which stood behind the desk and against the north wall near the windows. So far as I could see there were no fingerprints on the glass.

I went back to Andrew. By resting my cheek on the desk I could see into his face without lifting his head. I had known Andrew as a man endowed with a fine collection

"Yes, sir. And it was on one end of a wire. The other end of the wire was fastened to his shirt with a safety pin."

"I'm looking for Andy Ogden," he shouted in a cackling voice.

"I felt sure the master would want such a looking fellow in his house," said Mr. Ogden was not, and I started to shut the door.

"No, he ain't," the old man shouted at me. And before I could prevent him he topped into the hall, shook his fist in my face, and screamed:

"Tell yer boss of Furlie is here!"

"Luckily, Mr. Ogden looked into the hall just then and asked him what he wanted."

"A word with ye in private," the old man cackled.

"And do you know, sir, after thinking a moment, Mr. Ogden brought him in here and shut the door. I was stunned. Mr. Ogden has always been so particular about suspicious-looking characters."

"Did Mr. Ogden seem surprised at seeing the man?" I asked.

"He did, sir. Dumbfounded, I might say. At first I thought he hadn't caught what Furlie said. Mr. Ogden being a trifle deaf in his left ear, as you know, sir; and then I heard him muttering the man's of the "divine virtues." I mean that he was conscientious and eminently respectable, restrained and judicial and successful, a pillar of the church and a member of the chamber of commerce.

But from time to time I had felt that this conventional being wasn't the real Andrew Ogden; that behind it lived and longed an audacious personality he had never revealed to me but which, somehow, I had sensed and loved.

Hubbard came in just then.

"I didn't see Sumson around, sir."

"Never mind. He'll turn up." I thought for a moment. "Has Mr. Ogden had any visitors lately, Hubbard? Strangers, I mean?"

"Why, yes, sir, he has. A man and a woman. And a queer-looking pair they were. I was going to speak to you about them."

"Queer looking?" I exclaimed.

"Who were they? When did they come?"

"I don't know the woman's name, sir. She was here three or four days ago. She didn't come to the door. The master was in the grounds and he met her coming up the drive. They talked for a minute or two, then he brought her in here. She must have stayed an hour. She was one of those tall, angular, elderly females that seem to be all sinew and bone and tight-shut mouth."

"How was she dressed?"

"That was the queer part of her. She had on a black hat, a long black coat, and a long black dress. I couldn't help noticing the get-up of her, sir. Not a bit of color to her, sir. Even her eyes were black. Black as coal."

"She sounds like a crank of some sort, Hubbard. What about the other person?"

"Well, sir, he was just as queer, in his way. He came this afternoon. The look of him gave me a turn when I opened the door. I almost shut it in his face. He was a little crab-apple of a chap, in overalls and a torn coat, and all stooped and puffed. Eighty, if he was a day, a shock of hair as white as a clean napkin all over his head and neck, a stubble of whisker, a leathery skin like an old brown shoe, China-blue eyes all red around the rims, and an eight-sided glass stuck in his eye—that's him, sir."

"An eight-sided glass?" I echoed.

"You mean a lens of some sort?"

Locust Spends Years of Life Underground

Do seventeen-year locusts really appear every seventeen years? And, if so, why are some to be found every year?

These are pertinent questions, to say the least. The seventeen-year locust has long been heard of, and some skeptical people are inclined to brand accounts of them as myths. But they are real insects, and they do require (the variety known as cicada septendecim, which is literally Latin for cicada seventeen) seventeen, or in some cases, thirteen years for full development.

The seventeen-year locust is not a grasshopper. More exactly, it is not a locust but a cicada—the name cicada being pure Latin for the same insect, which has been known for centuries by this name. A commoner cicada is found in many localities every year. But the seventeen-year variety, as Webster's New International dictionary summarizes, spends almost all of its seventeen or thirteen years "under ground in the larval condition. After emerging it quickly changes to the adult condition, in which it lives only a few weeks."

Locust, by the way, is also a nearly pure Latin name. The word "lobster" is a variation or corruption of locust, through the Anglo-Saxon.

Kipling Greatness Not "Outward and Visible"

As an alternative to the autograph album of tradition, Clara Sheridan, the painter-cum-scriptress journalist, planted a "friendship garden" at her home in Sumner, where she had as neighbors the Rudyard Kiplings.

"It seemed to me a living, colorful reminder of one's friends," says Mrs. Sheridan in her reminiscences "Naked Truth."

George Moore contributed a fuchsia because "when I (Moore) was a child I liked fuchsias better than almost any other flower." Robert Hichens wrote: "I will try to get hold of a carnation. I love carnations." Kipling's contribution was lavender and rosemary. A. E. W. Mason sent a "Viburnum Placatum" to "spread all over the flower bed and smother all the friends in its vicinity."

Mrs. Sheridan describes Kipling as "a jolly little man with a school boy humor who would not have seemed anything much if his eyebrows had been shaved and one had not known his name. . . . When he had a good story to tell Mrs. Kipling always intervened to tell it better. If Rudyard Kipling were called Jones, a very charming, cheery Mr. Jones he would be."

Fired Gun Twice To Kill "Porky"

West Shokan, May 2.—The occupants of the Constable farm house on Sunday night were startled to hear the ferocious barking of the family Alredale "Curly" which sound emanated from the regions of the cellar. Lighting the lantern and seizing a shell lantern loaded his gun and proceeded to ascertain the cause of the alarm. On entering the cellar he saw by the aid of the lantern's glow some object perched aloft on a beam, which "Curly" was vainly endeavoring to reach, which upon closer examination proved to be a huge porcupine.

Taking a hasty aim he fired. The crashing roar of the gun appeared almost to lift the house from its foundations. After the powder smoke had somewhat cleared away the "porky" was still seen to be seemingly unconcerned and chewing great chips from the beam.

Ernest then set down his lantern and hurried upstairs for another supply of ammunition. Upon his return he found the lantern extinguished and the cellar dark as a duncheon. The lantern was, however, soon lighted, the weapon loaded, and then holding the lantern with one hand, Ernest poked the muzzle into the "porky's" face, closed his eyes and pulled the trigger. Another crashing roar and "porky" with a thud fell to the floor below, a badly mangled specimen of his race a victim of Ernie's deadly aim.

Lyonsville Services

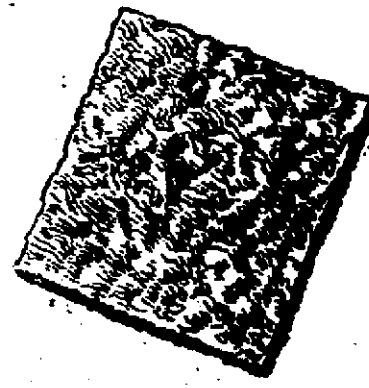

The subject by the Rev. T. S. Braithwaite in the Reformed Church of Lyonsville next Sunday at 2:15 will be: "The Need of Reality in Religion." The congregation enjoyed the singing of Mr. Broadhead and Harry Braithwaite last Sunday. After the service a business meeting was held when Jacob Barley was elected elder and Ray Davis deacon. The public is invited to these services.

OLD MONASTERY WILL CELEBRATE

Institution Founded by St.
Benedict Will Observe
1,400th Anniversary.

Rome.—From the height of its lofty peak, rising 1,500 feet almost perpendicular over the ancient town of Cassino, the famous old Benedictine Monastery of Monte Cassino, from which throughout the centuries missionaries have departed to convert the world and savants to enlighten it, where numerous popes, in simple garb, received their first lessons in ecclesiastical discipline, smiles upon the surrounding country. The eye ranges over gently undulating fertile country to the sea, 20 miles away to the westward. In the calm and peace of the monastery the observer feels outside and above the world and its hurry and bustle.

The peaceful quiet of the Monte Cassino monastery has been rudely shattered this year by the preparations for the forthcoming celebration of the fourteen hundredth anniversary of its foundation by St. Benedict. The celebrated Benedictine order, the followers of which converted England, Germany, Holland, Denmark, and Scandinavia to the Christian faith, has invited the whole world to share its joy on this festive occasion and has promoted a series of festivities which will last a whole year. Added significance is given to the occasion by the report that Pope Pius XI, on his first trip outside the Vatican, intends to visit the Monte Cassino monastery, accompanied by his court.

Celebration to Last a Year.
For a year Monte Cassino will be the goal for countless thousands of pilgrims who will climb the steep road to the monastery in order to participate in the special spiritual indulgences granted by the church on this occasion.

The monastery's famous library, containing a unique collection of treasured ancient manuscripts, will be thrown open to the public and its artistic wonders will be visible to all. Solemn religious ceremonies will be held in its beautiful church. Thousands will kneel in worship at the high altar, beneath which lie the relics of St. Benedict, founder of the order.

The town of Cassino will share in the celebration with an exhibition of art. Work is now in progress to prepare everything for the inauguration date. The road winding up the steep mountain to the monastery is being improved. Hotels and restaurants are getting ready for a tremendous influx of pilgrims.

Monastery's History Varied.
Since its foundation, 1,400 years ago, the Monte Cassino monastery has had a history full of ups and downs. Seven times it has been destroyed and seven times rebuilt. Longobards (Lombards), Saracens and the French, earthquakes and fire have laid it waste time and again, but always the monks returned and rebuilt their house around the relics of their founder. It went through periods of great splendor. Not only did the Benedictines spread the Gospel to the furthestmost corners of Europe, not only did they powerfully contribute to the cause of learning in the peaceful quiet of their cells, but it is chiefly owing to their effort that a great part of Roman thought and civilization was saved for later generations. It is they who preserved the germs of Italian social, intellectual and artistic life through the darkest centuries. The world owes them an incalculable debt of gratitude.

The Benedictine order was founded by St. Benedict in 529 A. D. His history, though deeply overlaid with legend, is both interesting and picturesque. He was born at Nursia (now Norcia) in Umbria in 480, of a good old Italian family and was sent to Rome to study, but the vices of the capital drove him into solitude while he was still a youth.

Fleece From Wickedness.

Young Benedict fled from the wickedness around him and abandoned his literary studies, preferring to be "wisely ignorant." He took refuge in a grotto near Sublacum (now Subiaco), which he did not leave for three years. A neighboring monk during this period supplied him with food let down into the cave by means of a rope. Here he was tempted by the evil one who took the shape of a beautiful woman, but Benedict, summoning all his fortitude, stripped himself of his vestments of skins and rolled among thorns and briars until the impure flame was extinguished.

His fame spread until the monks in the vicinity chose him as their head, but Benedict applied such severe rules that the monks soon regretted their offer and attempted to poison him, the story runs. The cup containing the poison no sooner was taken into Benedict's hands than it burst asunder and Benedict, after reproving them for their ingratitude, again retired into solitude.

Benedict's reputation for saintliness attracted many disciples until fully 12 clusters rose round his solitary cave. This, however, caused jealousy among the rival orders of monks. Fresh attempts to poison him were made, but he was again saved by divine interposition.

The jealous rivals sent seven lewd girls within the precincts of the monastery to seduce Benedict's monks.

Finally, Benedict decided to abandon the neighborhood and journeyed southward to Monte Cassino.

Joins Forces With Sister.

He demolished a temple to Apollo still existing at that time, which was an object of worship among the ignorant villagers, and erected in its stead two oratories, one dedicated to St. John the Baptist and the other to St. Martin.

In later years he was closely associated with his sister, Scholastica, who also had forsaken the world and founded a nunnery near Monte Cassino. Benedict died standing after partaking of the communion, and was buried in the church of the monastery under the high altar by the side of his sister.

The Benedictine order soon spread over Europe. The order was based on a set of rules dictated by St. Benedict and founded on labor and discipline. It is the distinction of St. Benedict that he not only organized the monks in communities, but made manual labor a necessary element of their life in contrast to the mere meditative seclusion which previously had been the custom. It led to the high intellectual fruitfulness which has been the glory of the Benedictine order. Wherever they have established themselves the Benedictines not only made the wilderness into fruitful fields, but also became a center of intellectual life. Civilization owes them a debt greater than many know.

Hoovers Will Ride in Their Own Automobiles

Washington.—Wearing in and out of Washington's tangled traffic maze in the near future will be two shiny motor cars, the property of "Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hoover of 1600 Pennsylvania avenue."

They will be smart and expensive, and altogether in keeping with the wealth of the Pennsylvania avenue family, but they will bear no distinguishing insignia to indicate to the public that their occupants are none other than the President of the United States and his wife.

In effect the Hoovers have decided to maintain two "incognito" autos in which they make their informal and personal trips in and around town without attracting the attention which the official White House limousine invariably does.

There will be no Presidential seal on the doors, the bodies will not be custom-built and the license numbers will be far removed from the tell-tale 100-105 serials which marked the official cars. The usual secret service car will, of course, follow behind if the President is out riding, but it is figured that without the well known limousine this will fail to occasion any considerable notice.

The regular autos will be maintained for use on more formal occasions. These belong to the government under a yearly contract.

The decision to maintain two personally owned cars will bring the total number in the White House up to nine—an increase of four over the Coolidge administration.

Bricks 5,000 Years Old Show Fingerprints

Chicago.—Bricks taken from walls of the ancient city of Ur of the Chaldees, made 5,000 years ago showing the fingerprints of the makers, were displayed at the American Ceramic exposition here recently.

In contrast, more than 250,000 worth of the finest American chinaware, glass, pottery, stoneware, tile terra cotta, brick and other ceramic wares were shown.

One of the exhibits was a new "mystery material," as yet unnamed, which it is claimed, is so light and yet so strong that it may be possible to build structures which will tower 125 stories high. It will not break down at a temperature of 3,250 degrees and is an excellent insulator against cold and heat.

Two Missouri Farmers Profit From Muskrats

Greenville, Mo. — Missouri's first muskrat farmers, Frank and Ellsworth Barrow, have found the business profitable.

Last August they fenced an acre of ground, which included a lake, caught a few muskrats and started in. They have more than a hundred head now. Their fence was built of galvanized steel, sunk 36 inches in the ground, with a three-foot extension above and barbed wire on top.

The muskrats have been fed potatoes, pond plants, cabbage, celery, clams, crawfish and corn.

Plan Jungle Airports for African Service

Johannesburg, South Africa.—Jungle airports are being laid out in Africa in preparation for the air service from Cairo to Johannesburg. Thousands of trees have had to be felled and their roots dug up to provide landing spaces. Ant-hills have been removed, in many places, by hand, as no other means was available. Some of them were more than twenty-five feet in height. Experimental flights are to be made next summer as a preliminary to the regular service. The whole journey of 5,000 miles will take five or six days instead of two months by existing means of transport.

Spanish Heavyweight Contender

RUFINO ALVAREZ.

Rufino Alvarez, Spanish heavyweight contender, who is staying at the former Walk Miller Health Farm at Eddyville, will meet George Neron Saturday night in a ten-round battle at the Olympic Club in New York city. The fight is slated as the feature attraction and will be supported by several fast tilts in one of which Charlie Von Reeden, well known to local fans, will scrap.

Alvarez is in the pink of condition and his manager Fred Harighorst, expects him to turn in a very creditable performance in New York. It is said he has a hard man in Neron, but the husky Spaniard is ready for him. As Alvarez has beaten most of his opponents by the knockout route, he figures on doing away with Neron in the same manner.

The Spanish strong man, who is as spry as a kitten, started in the boxing game at an early age. At the age of 17 years he left his native state of Asturias, Spain, as an amateur boxer and went to Cuba. Here he boxed when not working in the large bakery owned by his brothers and soon became prominent in fight circles. From 1925 to '27 he held the championship of the Police Club of Havana.

Forsook Amateur Ranks. Urged to forsake the amateur ranks for a place among the boys who go in for the big stakes, Alvarez took on three of Cuba's outstanding heavies and disposed of them by the k.o. route. The battlers were Jesus Rodriguez, Bildmoro Mendez and Kid May. Having conquered the cream of the Cuban pugilistic circles, Rufino sought a turn in American rings.

He went to Tampa, Fla., and got a match with Jack Kirten, one of the best that the southern city could produce. He knocked out Kirten in six rounds and was then matched with Bam Belem, whom he put away in less than two stanzas.

From then on he was known as the terror of the south. Men who fell victims to his dynamic punches were Bill Middlekauff, Tommy O'Brien and Jack Benson, all of whom went down early in their scraps. He then got a return match with Jack Kirten, who stayed four rounds, before taking on Bobby Marriot, and facing him so badly that the Florida idol dropped 16 times before the fight was stopped in the fifth session.

Made Trip North.

Alvarez then decided to take a trip north. On his way he stopped over at Norfolk, Va., to do battle with Gunboat Smith. He beat him to the decision in 10 rounds and thus es-established himself for some of the outstanding cauliflower ear men of New York.

In the metropolis he knocked out Joe Silvani, two rounds; Jake Wilson, five rounds; Ted Wilson, 30 seconds; Joe Costello, two rounds. He beat Bill Brown by taking the decision from him in a six rounder and drew with Jack Weibert in another sextet.

So Alvarez will enter the ring at the Olympic Saturday night with the record of never having lost a fight and hopes to continue his successful march for a crack at the heavyweight crown.

Air taxis are planned to operate between ports of France and Paris.

CLERMONT SCHEDULED TO PLAY THIS EVENING

The Clermonts are scheduled to meet the Columbia shirt factory team in a practice game at Hasbrouck Park this evening at 6:15 o'clock. Just who will do the pitching for the teams is not known, but as the session will be for practice the whole hurling staff of both nines likely will get a chance on the mound.

Drink Toast to Waldorf in Water

Passing of Famous Hotel Marked by Banquet in Grand Ball Room, Attended by Over 2,000 Persons—Loving Cup and Medal for Oscar Tschirky.

New York, May 2 (AP)—A survivor of the champagne and cocktail era, the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel passed out of existence at midnight to a toast drunk in mineral water.

Two thousand guests, saddened as though by the passing of an old friend, attended the final dinner in the grand ball room, a dinner said to have been equalled only by that tendered Colonel Theodore Roosevelt after his first election to the Presidency.

The menu, an elaborate one, was chosen and its preparation and service directed by Oscar Tschirky, who as "Oscar of the Waldorf" had earned a reputation that extended around the world.

As the hour of midnight struck the guests rose in a toast to the hotel and to Oscar. The diners were members of thirty-eight societies that had long held their functions at the hotel.

Many noted men were among those present. Addresses in which regret at the passing of the hotel was voiced were made by Charles C. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central, who presided, and United States Senator Royal S. Copeland.

Messages of regret at the closing of the hotel were heard from Marshal Joffre and General Gouraud, military governor of Paris, both of whom had been entertained there upon visits to this country.

Two Gifts For Oscar. Oscar of the Waldorf was presented with two gifts. A silver loving cup engraved "For Auld Lang Syne" was presented by Colonel Walter Scott in appreciation of past courtesies, while, Dr. Marcel Knecht, secretary general of the Paris newspaper Le Matin, presented him a medal as a gift from a group of men who had formulated plans for the first attempt at building the Panama canal at the hotel.

Prior to the dinner the guests wandered once again through Peacock Alley and the other lobbies that had made the hotel known as one of the most luxurious in the world. The auctioneer's hammer, however, had already done part of its work and many of the walls and floors were bare.

The first day of the auction brought $25,000 and it was expected that before the end of the month the $2,500,000 worth of the hotel's furnishings would have been carried away.

Hoover Dismisses Attorney DeGroot

U. S. Attorney for Eastern New York Three Times Refused to Resign—President Wants Increased Efficiency in Government Service.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—William A. DeGroot, who repeatedly had refused to resign as United States Attorney for the eastern New York district, has been summarily dismissed from office by President Hoover.

He is the third district attorney forced out of office since Attorney General Mitchell undertook to comply with the President's desire for increased efficiency in the government service and initiated the nationwide survey of prosecuting attorneys' offices, which is still in progress.

DeGroot's resignation was first requested by former Attorney General Sargent. That request was made January 28, 1929. Mitchell informed the President, and was refused. The new Attorney General repeated it April 2. His letter, he told Mr. Hoover, was ignored, and the request was renewed April 24, being again refused by DeGroot in a telegram sent five days later.

Acting on Mitchell's recommendation and his statement of the situation, President Hoover wrote yesterday to DeGroot:

"You are hereby removed from the office of United States Attorney, Eastern District of New York, effective immediately."

Had Hearing Under Sargent. He thus also rejected DeGroot's request for a public hearing. Mitchell having told him that a hearing had been held under Sargent and that "it would be a waste of time to comply with Mr. DeGroot's request for any further hearing."

State and County Reject Plan

Jourment in order that the department might make its own study and also to give opportunity to study the plans as submitted by the railroad and make further objection to it. He said that he was positive that the department would never for one moment consider the acceptance of such a "suicidal" plan as the railroad had submitted. If the commission issued an order on such a plan he said the department would appeal from the order. The aim of the department was to eliminate bad curves, bad grades and poor alignments as rapidly as possible and to deliberately inject an "S" curve and 5% grade in this scheme was not in accordance with the attitude of the department.

Mr. Jaynes said the railroad had objected from the start to the elimination of this crossing when the money could better be spent on some dangerous and more traveled crossing. No accidents had been recorded in recent years at this crossing even though the alignment of the highway at present was bad.

Attorney Groves Opposes Plan. Mr. Groves speaking for the county said the county would like to see the crossing eliminated. He thought it was a dangerous crossing and the public safety demanded the elimination. In the summer time the travel over the road was heavy. There were several busses passing the point daily but he was absolutely opposed to the plan as submitted by the railroad. He inquired as to whether a study had been made for an underpass as talked of at the last hearing and was told the cost would be prohibitive.

Adjourned Until June 18. In order to give the Department of Public Works an opportunity to make a study the matter was adjourned until June 18 at 2 o'clock at which time the department will submit plans.

Prefer Dawes Plan To Uncertainties

Berlin, May 2 (AP).—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht expressed the opinion, prior to his departure for Paris last night, that no offer he could make Germany's creditors could serve as a basis for permanent settlement of the reparations problem.

Even a "provisional solution," which official circles favored for a long time, now seemed unsatisfactory and German officialdom was inclined to the view that it was better to have the Dawes plan continue than to accept a provisional settlement with its new uncertainties.

It was said this change of attitude was due to the realization that any provisional solution to be acceptable to the Allies must entail giving up the transfer protection guaranteed in the Dawes plan.

While Germany might forego this protection in return for a final arrangement of annuities lower than the 2,500,000,000 marks payable under the Dawes plan—say 1,500,000,000 or 1,750,000,000 marks—it was felt here this safeguard was too valuable to renounce for a mere provisional arrangement.

Meeting of County Scoutmasters

A very interesting meeting of the Scoutmasters and Assistants of the Boy Scouts of Ulster county was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday evening. E. E. Haynes, George Hitt and Crawford Lasher of Fleischmanns; James Crowell and William Cox of Wallkill; the Rev. Elmer Cates, Casper Miller and Charles Gilmore of Saugerties; Henry Millonig, Willys Ryder, Richard Bailey and Howard N. Smith of Kingston were present.

Suggestions were made for the Scouts to render practical service in helping to clean cemeteries where opportunity offers and to assist in decorating the graves of soldiers. The Scouts will be glad to cooperate in service along this line.

Saugerties has invited the Scouts of the county to participate in its Fourth of July celebration. After the usual parade in the morning and lunch, a County Scout Semi-Annual Rally will be held in the afternoon. The program will consist of interesting Scout demonstrations and contests.

A Scout Leaders' Training Course was outlined and will be started very soon. All Scout leaders and others interested in Scouting are invited to participate. The course is elementary and will cover at least six weekly sessions, one of which will be out of doors.

TRAIL OF JOAN OF ARC TO BE MARKED

Stone Tablets to Follow
Route of Maid.

Vancouver, France.—The trail of Joan of Arc, Maid of Orleans, is to be marked permanently as France's tribute to her on the five-hundredth anniversary celebration of her exploits.

Her progress from the little town of Domremy to the court of the dauphin at Chinon; to Orleans, where she raised the 10-day siege; on to Reims, where she crowned the dauphin, King Charles VII; to St. Denis, close to Paris, and eventually to the stake at Rouen in the north, is to be described serially in stone tablets set up at points of greatest importance in connection with her story. It will take 15 months to put them in place.

Three Thousand Weary Miles.

In all, the trail will cover more than 3,000 weary miles which the girl soldier, clad in armor and riding a white horse, traveled in less than fourteen months of terrific campaigning. She always pushed forward faster than her seasoned warrior counselors advised, never resting or sparing herself.

This little town, a few miles from peaceful Domremy, where Joan, daughter of a tanned peasant family, heard the voices which started her on her military career, was the starting point of her journey. The story begins at dawn February 23, 1412, when Joan, disguised as a young merchant and accompanied by six faithful local followers, set out for Chinon and the court of the dauphin, to tell the story of her voices and offer her sword to France.

She rode a white horse, given her by an uncle, and she left her mother and father in angry tears, berating her for her willfulness.

A Big, Healthy Girl.

She was a big, healthy girl of eighteen years of age, strong from working in the fields, tending her father's flock and doing the housework of a medieval peasant cottage. Eighteen months later she met her death, almost too feeble to stand up. War, hardships and imprisonment made a white-faced, hollow-eyed shadow of the peasant girl.

Joan raised the siege of Orleans April 20, 1429. She crowned the dauphin king of France in the Reims cathedral July 16 of the same year. She was taken prisoner at Compiègne May 24, 1430, and met her death at Rouen May 30, 1431. Dates of dedication of memorial tablets will coincide with the five-hundredth anniversary of these dates.

Woman Is Auctioneer;
Husband Is Her Clerk

Bournemouth, England.—When Mrs. Ernest Comer of Christchurch road, Boscombe, mounts the rostrum of one of the leading auction rooms in this town and begins wielding the hammer, dealers sit up and take notice.

For although Mrs. Comer is a pioneer of her sex in the strenuous profession of auctioneering, she is acknowledged by male competitors to be one of the cleverest in England.

With true womanly intuition she is keen to drive a bargain, and this ability, together with the feminine "gift of gab," has contributed greatly to her success.

Mrs. Comer took up auctioneering about ten years ago, when, owing to her husband's illness, she was compelled to become the family bread winner. Mr. Comer now acts as her clerk.

Furniture is Mrs. Comer's specialty, and her husband is an expert on pictures.

"But I have sold motor cars and many other articles by auction with success," she added.
